Passport.

Oh father give me passport
Oh mother give me passport.
Elder brother give me passport.
To job and life.
Give me education.

Father I'm really tired.
Of looking after goats
I'm exhausted
I cannot chase anymore
Your wild cow
While my friends go to school
To obtain their passports.

Father, please I beg you
Don't be mad with me
Sell the goats

Sell the cows
Sell everything
And give me all the money
To pay for my passport
To job and life
Give me education
I pray for you.

55. Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow in full sentences.

A library is a room or building in which we find a collection of books. We borrow useful books from the library. A proper library has thousands of books for those who wish to study seriously. Nobody can afford to buy all the books from the shops; therefore, we make good use of the library by borrowing the books that we can't buy.

A good library has two sections; the lending section and the reference section. From the lending section we take away books and read them in our free time. The reference section has dictionaries, atlases, encyclopedias and other expensive books. These books cannot be borrowed. They are used in the library only.

Libraries have story books as well as study books. Most children like to read story books by famous authors young children enjoy books about adventures. The books in the library are usually arranged in alphabetical order. This makes them easy to find and put back after reading.
