Dear Mummy,

It gives me great pleasure to write to you this letter. How are you and how is baby Brian? Does he still cry for ice cream? I believe he has grown since I have been away for six months.

The purpose of writing this letter is to inform you that I have greatly improved in all subjects. The last Mid-term exams, I got aggregate five. I didn't get a D1 in English because of punctuation marks and spellings. However, I promise that I will excel in the End of term-two exams because teachers of English are helping me a great deal. Please, hold me in prayer that my dream comes true.

Send my regards to all especially my beloved brother.

Your daughter,

Patience Kitui.

Questions:

(a) Who wrote the letter?

(b) To whom was the letter written?

(c) Where does Patience study from?

(d) When was the letter written?

(e) Why did Patience write the letter?

(f) In which exam did Patience get aggregate five?
